A TRULY REMARKABLE TEAM

For this newsletter edition, I need to address the elephant in the room.

Everything that happened in March, quarantining through April, and facing the unknown of the future feels pretty scary. However, instead of focusing on the fear and anxiety that inevitably comes with these types of situations, I've put all my attention toward the health of my patients, employees, and their families. ... LET YOUR MAKEUP SAVE THE PLANET

Reducing animal products isn't just an animal cruelty concern — it affects the environment too. In the past, animal products have been a staple in the beauty industry, ... CONTINUE READING

ALL ABOUT EPIPHYTES

Perched high in the trees in the rainforest, epiphytes reach for the drops of water that splash down from above. The plants take what they need and let the rest drip down to the forest floor. ... CONTINUE READING
